In any floor painting endeavour, there are always a multitude of questions to ask... what look is trying to be accomplished, what chemicals does it need to resist, what previous coating needs to be removed etc. When PinPoint Creative came to us and invited us to participate in finishing a Bike Storage area in Qualico's Allendale Medical Centre parkade, we were excited to showcase our capabilities in the world of high gloss, super durable, two-part epoxies.

And the end results speak volumes. We started by etching the brand new concrete slab, then painted the entire area with a grey two-part epoxy, on which we then added the yellow safety lines and the centerpiece decal. Then the entire area was topcoated with a clear epoxy protectant.

Add this process to the details and look created by the addition of a black kicker and the unique designs on the walls and you have an end product worthy of showcasing. So whether you're looking for a simple mechanical room, stairwell refresh or something such as an all out stunning bike storage area, we have the expertise to figure out the right solution to fit your needs and budget.
